

DePaul Celebrates

Joseph L. Allen Apartments Opening

New York State Homes and Community Renewal (HCR), New York State Office of Mental Health (OMH), Governor's Office of Storm Recovery (GOSR), DePaul, local officials, leaders and project partners celebrated the new Joseph L. Allen Apartments at an open house on October 5 in Schenectady, New York.

The three-story, 52,500 square foot affordable housing development at 780 Albany Street features 51 new studio, one- and two-bedroom units, 25 of which are set aside as supportive housing for individuals requiring services to live independently in the community. The $17.6 million development is part of Governor Cuomo's unprecedented commitment to affordable housing which includes $20 billion to build or preserve 100,000 units of affordable, and 6,000 units of supportive housing across the State.

New York State Homes and Community Renewal Commissioner RuthAnne Visnauskas said, "The Joseph L. Allen Apartments are doing for Hamilton Hill what Governor Cuomo's aggressive plan is doing across the state – providing affordable and supportive housing so more New Yorkers can live independent lives in the communities they love. This nearly $18 million development enhances the lives of 51 households, strengthens the neighborhood and advances Schenectady's vibrant revitalization drive."

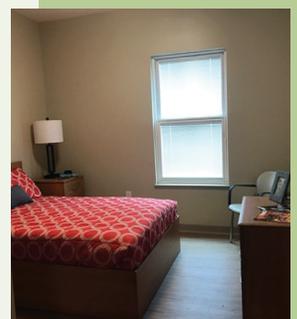

New York State Office of Mental Health Commissioner Dr. Ann Marie T. Sullivan said, "The supportive housing units in the Joseph L.

Allen Apartments will enable individuals living with mental illness to live and thrive in their communities. With stable housing that supports their recovery, individuals living with mental illness or substance abuse are able to become valuable contributors to their communities."

Moira Tashjian, Associate Commissioner for the Adult Community Care Group within the Division of Adult Services at the New York State Office of Mental Health, while presenting at the event said, "We were fortunate that DePaul responded to an RFP and that we were able to award them quite a bit of money to put this project up. The building is beautiful but as we've all said, what happens in the building will be more beautiful. Safe, affordable housing and staff that will be committed to working with individuals to meet goals. People can go home at night and put a head on their pillow and know that their life will be successful. That optimism will keep them whole as well."

Named to honor the memory of Schenectady's first African-American City Councilman, Joseph L. Allen, all apartments feature fully-equipped kitchens with a range/refrigerator and microwave, a wall-mounted TV including basic cable service, and in-unit storage. Heat, air conditioning, hot water and electric are included in the rent and community laundry facilities are available at no cost. Tenants have access to a computer lab with Wi-Fi access throughout the building, community room and lounges.

DePaul President Mark H. Fuller said, "DePaul is pleased to be a community partner in meeting the need for quality affordable housing options in Schenectady and throughout New York State. We are so proud to be part of the revitalization of the Hamilton Hill neighborhood community and to provide homes for people in need. The DePaul Joseph L. Allen Apartments is an example of progress and partnership in action."

The Joseph L. Allen Apartments received funding through HCR's Housing Finance Agency totaling $8.8 million of tax-exempt bonds and an award of $602,347 in Low Income Housing Tax Credits; GOSR's award of a Community Development Block Grant Disaster Recovery (CDBG-DR) loan of $4,725,000; in addition there are OMH loans and grants, and a grant from the New York State Energy Research and Development Authority (NYSERDA). The project received funding from OMH for case management services for some tenants.

The project incorporates "green" standards, including using Energy Star-rated appliances and lighting fixtures and high-efficiency furnaces and condensing units for heating and cooling. In addition, the Joseph L. Allen Apartments are certified to Version 3.1 of the Energy Star Certified for Homes Program, Enterprise Green Communities Criteria Program 2015, and the NYSERDA Low Rise Residential New Construction program.

Governor's Office of Storm Recovery Executive Director Lisa Bova-Hiatt said, "Schenectady residents well know that severe weather events such as Hurricane Irene do not only impact New York State's coastal areas, and the community championed the opportunity to build back better. The Joseph L. Allen Apartments represent one of several initiatives totaling more than $15 million in awards to address the impacts of storm events in Schenectady and the Capital region."

NYSERDA President and CEO Alicia Barton said, "Under Governor Cuomo's leadership, more New Yorkers who may not have the financial means to purchase clean energy are getting to reap the benefits of it through multi-family projects like this. This is yet another example of the State's leadership in supporting clean energy for all New Yorkers while also combating climate change."

Senator James Tedisco said, "The DePaul Joseph L. Allen Apartments will provide much needed supportive housing services to residents in Schenectady and enable more people to remain independent in their own community where they most want to be."

Speakers at the Joseph L. Allen Apartments Open House included Joseph L. Allen's daughter Lakeia Allen-Bowman, his grandson Raymond Joseph Allen-Bowman, Schenectady Community Action Program Executive Director Debra Schimpf, Schenectady City Councilwoman Marion Porterfield, Vice Chair of the County Legislature Karen Johnson, Associate Commissioner for the Adult Community Care Group within the Division of Adult Services at the New York State Office of Mental Health Moira Tashjian, Senator James Tedisco, New York State Homes and Community Renewal Commissioner RuthAnne Visnauskas, DePaul President Mark Fuller and Assemblyman Angelo Santabarbara. Absent from photo is Assemblyman Phil Steck.

Assemblyman Angelo Santabarbara said, "This is a project about people. Projects like the new Joseph L. Allen Apartments add strength and vitality to our community, meeting the tremendous need for quality affordable housing and providing the support services that make a difference. Incredible partnerships like this are making significant investments possible in our city's neighborhoods."

Assemblyman Phil Steck said, "Ensuring access to affordable housing is a critical investment in our communities and helps working families keep more of their hard-earned money so that they can keep up with the ever-increasing costs of living. The Joseph L. Allen Apartments will provide Schenectady residents with a safe, comfortable and affordable place that they can be proud to call home."

City of Schenectady Mayor Gary McCarthy said, "The DePaul development on Albany Street has replaced blighted vacant structures with a beautiful new building that adds momentum to our efforts to reinvest in and rebuild Hamilton Hill. The late Joe Allen would be proud to see this quality housing go up and help this neighborhood grow again."

Schenectady County Legislature Chairman Anthony Jasenski said, "This is a great day for the Hamilton Hill Neighborhood as we open the new Joseph Allen Apartments on Albany Street. This $18 million development not only provides affordable housing for our residents, but has led the way for additional redevelopment including more than $30 million in the surrounding neighborhood. Working together with our County economic development team, we have attracted more than $50 million in new investment to the Hamilton Hill neighborhood."

A Legacy of Community Betterment

Joseph L. Allen dedicated his life to bettering Schenectady's Hamilton Hill neighborhood in which he grew up and later raised his own family.

"My father really cared about people," said Allen's daughter Lakeia Allen-Bowman. "He genuinely loved the city of Schenectady and willingly helped anyone who needed a hand. Especially the downtrodden and disenfranchised."

Bowman said her father would be extremely pleased to see his name on DePaul's newest project, a three-story, 52,500 square foot apartment building located at 780 Albany Street in Schenectady's Hamilton Hill neighborhood.

Joseph L. Allen

"He loved living in Hamilton Hill and often talked about how it used to be a very nice neighborhood and how he wanted to see it become great again," Bowman added. "I'm sure that he would be pleased with [the Joseph L. Allen Apartments], not only because it is a great honor but because it will be a step toward improving a community that he cherished."

Joseph L. Allen passed away in April 2015 at the age of 79. After attending Mount Pleasant High School, he graduated from Kentucky State College in 1958. That same year, he was drafted into the United States Army where he served honorably until he was discharged in 1961. Mr. Allen later went on to earn his Master's degree in educational psychology from the College of St. Rose in 1981.

Mr. Allen's interest in community service began as a youth advisor with the Carver Community Center. He began working for the New York State Division for Youth in 1966, eventually rising to the assistant director of the NYS Division for Youth until 1990 when he became the Director of the Troy Community Urban Home. Mr. Allen retired from New York State as a Supervisor of the Albany Intake Unit in 1999.

Mr. Allen's dedication to community betterment began even before he was elected as the first African-American member of the Schenectady City Council in November 1995. His long history of involvement started as a founding member of the Albany Alumni chapter of the Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, Inc. He previously served as the president of the Schenectady Chapter of the NAACP, President of the Hamilton Hill Neighborhood Association, Chairman of the Youth Advisory Board at the Carver Community Center, Human Services Planning Council of Schenectady County, Hamilton Hill Task Force, Minority Contractors Technical Assistance Board and the Schenectady IDA Board. He also served as a trustee board member of the Duryee Memorial AME Zion Church where he was an active member of the male chorus.

During his time serving on the Schenectady City Council, Mr. Allen served in many capacities, including council president, chairman of the Claims Committee, Public Safety Committee and chair of the Parks and Recreation Committee.

Bowman said her father made a lot of connections through his community service.

"He knew everyone," she said. "We couldn't really go anywhere in the city without someone recognizing him or stopping to say hello. Even if they didn't know his name, they knew who he was."

Dedicated to community, education, work, family and his church, which is located right across the street from the Joseph L. Allen Apartments, Mr. Allen is remembered as always being accessible and willing to lend a hand.

Marion Porterfield, Mr. Allen's

successor on the Schenectady City Council, said having a building which will serve those on a fixed income or with a mental health diagnosis named after him is a great honor to Joseph L. Allen's legacy.

"He would be extremely pleased to see the development going in because he was a strong advocate for the area," she said. "He always wanted to make sure Hamilton Hill was included in plans to revitalize the city."

"He loved living in Hamilton Hill and often talked about how it used to be a very nice neighborhood and how he wanted to see it become great again."

Highlights from National Assisted Living Week

“Family isn’t always blood, it’s the people in your life who want you in theirs: the ones who accept you for who you are, the ones who would do anything to see you smile and who love you no matter what.”

This Maya Angelou quote inspired this year’s National Assisted Living Week theme, “Family is Forever.” DePaul’s Senior Living Communities recently celebrated National Assisted Living Week (NALW). Established by the National Center for Assisted Living, NALW took place September 10 – 16. The week-long event allowed residents, their families and staff to recognize the strong bonds and lasting imprints they share.

The relationships we cultivate throughout our lives can leave a lasting imprint. The personal and professional relationships we form with friends, family, co-workers and acquaintances help us grow and evolve. Maintaining these relationships as we age can often lead to an increase in happiness and life expectancy.

At DePaul, we offer a personalized approach to delivering support and services while encouraging family members to be actively involved in the care of their loved ones. We have seen many special bonds formed between our staff and the residents they care for, creating memories that will last a lifetime.
