Sherry celebrates 100 years and counting

Submitted to The Post

A resident of Westwood Commons since 2010, Mary Sherry turned 100 years old on August 16.

A native of Oswego, New York, Sherry moved to Rochester after marrying her husband, William, who died 17 years ago. The couple did not have any children, but did have the pleasure of spoiling many nieces and nephews. Sherry worked as a saleswoman at B. Foreman's Co. Department Store for 28 years. For fun, she enjoyed bowling.

The secret to longevity is "eating your veggies and getting plenty of rest," said Sherry.
