The spirit of competition combined with unity was evident at Canandaigua's Trolley Station Apartments during its third Annual Bean Bags and Barbecue contest.

The event began with a courtyard cookout and quickly progressed into a cornhole tournament, where local first responders teamed up with apartment residents. Notably, New York Senator Pamela Helming initiated the contest with the ceremonial first bean bag throw. As the competition continued, resident Keelyn K. and Canandaigua Firefighter Taylor Northrup clinched the first place title.

The event witnessed participation from several local agencies, including the New York State Police, Ontario County Sheriff's Office, Canandaigua Fire Department, Canandaigua's Emergency Squad, and the United Presbyterian Methodist Church
